Paul,

No trouble at all on scheduling. It must be fate! I imagine you miss one meeting every few years, about the same as me. Funny that we both did that as to these two meetings.

I appreciate the schedule you propose. More time is useful so I can reflect on my first draft and consult thoroughly with others -- plus stay focused on teaching at the start of the term.

Thanks again,

Ben

Ben:

Sorry again for the lateness on my part. Also I checked with Rae and she thinks we should make the deadline for handing in materials March 15 for everything, so that should give you even more time. She also liked your idea of listing some people the FRB could talk to, so I will formalize that in the letter.

Best

Paul
