
From: Mucciarone, Rae
Sent: Monday, October 5, 2015 2:58 PM EDT
To: Healy, Paul
CC: Greschler, Cynthia
Subject: RE: FRB

Hi Paul,

It's all new to me, too, and it's hard to know what is the right approach. I feel like you're right - just the relevant bits. In their process, presumably they're trying to stick as closely to the matter at hand as possible (as opposed to asking broader questions that might get into the quality of his work). If they need more, they'll ask.

OK, let us see how we can collect the relevant excerpts. Once we have those in order, we'll check in to be sure we're delivering the information to the right people (I think I have a list of the FRB members, but I'll be sure and we'll confirm).

Thanks,
 Rae

-----Original Message-----

From: Healy, Paul
Sent: Monday, October 05, 2015 2:53 PM
To: Mucciarone, Rae
Subject: Re: FRB

I'm open, but I think probably the relevant bits - since I would not want the other assessments influencing the FRB's views on the case. But if you think it would be better to give them the full letter I can be easily persuaded.

P

On Oct 5, 2015, at 10:39 AM, "Mucciarone, Rae" <rmucciarone@hbs.edu> wrote:

> Hi Paul,

>

> This seems right. Would you want them to receive full copies of the letters, or just the relevant bits as excerpts? I assume the former so they can have the context, but definitely wanted to check.

>

> Thanks,

> Rae

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: Healy, Paul

> Sent: Monday, October 05, 2015 10:36 AM

> To: Greschler, Cynthia; Mucciarone, Rae

> Subject: FRB

>

> Cynthia and Rae:

>

> F034 [REDACTED] pointed out that many of the letters for Ben Edelman included comments about the incidents discussed by the FRB. [REDACTED] thought it would make sense for the FRB to see these letters to ensure that the faculty writers were able to know that their letters were read by the appropriate body covering these issues. Is it possible to make sure this happens - I realize it is a little late in the game.

>

> P

>

> Paul Healy

> James R. Williston Professor of Business Administration Senior

> Associate Dean for Faculty Development Harvard Business School

> Soldiers Field Road Boston MA 20163

>

Paul Healy

James R. Williston Professor of Business Administration Senior Associate Dean for Faculty Development Harvard
Business School Soldiers Field Road Boston MA 20163